

Within the framework of Erasmus+60, a highly innovative project focusing on European citizens aged 60 and above, the University of Latvia will organize Hackaton “Third-age learning perspectives in modern society” on April 18, 2023.

This one day online event will be held in English and will bring together stakeholders of the project, professionals and leaders in the respective field, NGOs, state institutions, seniors and other involved and interested persons to discuss, collaborate, evaluate and find innovative solutions. Discussions will cover the following topics: wellbeing factors of studying for seniors (knowledge and future skills to be developed), life-long learning resources (opportunities and effective tools) and ways to increase their engagement in life-long learning. Collected feedback will be highly important in the development of policy recommendations and final report. Registration deadline: April 4, 2023; working language: English.

Registration to the online Hackathon and Agenda can be found in the following link: <https://www.erasmusplus60.uvsq.fr/hackathon-4>.

The poster features a background image of three elderly people sitting at a table with laptops, engaged in a discussion. A yellow rectangular box at the top center contains the date '18.04.2023'. The main title is 'HACKATHON THIRD-AGE LEARNING PERSPECTIVES IN MODERN SOCIETY' in large, bold, dark teal letters. Below the title, a white horizontal bar is followed by the text '10:00-15:00 (CET) | ZOOM'. At the bottom center, the 'Erasmus +60' logo is displayed, with the number '60' inside a yellow circle.
